Create a dynamic CAD application, that is the perfect fit for your requirements, by choosing from several predefined templates or by importing your own files. Access comments in the drawing and make quick fixes. Extend CAD: View technical drawings from popular 3D CAD packages such as Solidworks, AutoCAD LT, Dassault BIM 360 and many more. Also, include comments and version information in your drawings by using CAD layer-based comments. Convert PDFs from other 3D CAD software and print them on the selected page. (view PDFs in DWG format) Guides: Create complete, interactive, labeled guides with our intelligent assist tool, Create Guides. Ensure consistency in your designs by including label guides, perimeter guides, or drafting guidelines. 3D Paper Preview: Use a display that matches your 3D CAD application by utilizing the 3D Paper Preview feature. Check your 3D CAD drawings for quality, consistency, and accuracy before you approve or send a project to manufacturing. The latest edition of AutoCAD has been busy getting back to its basics. But don't let the techy jargon scare you; everything is still easy to understand and use. AutoCAD is always evolving, and it's the perfect platform to create, test, and share ideas, concepts, and ideas of all shapes and sizes. The latest release of AutoCAD, version 2023, is all about creating experiences that make it even easier to interact with and manage projects. We have simplified the design interface, revised its overall look and feel, and enhanced our overall Autodesk 360 integration. We are also adding new features to accelerate the delivery of designs, while preserving the ease of use for our users. Markup in AutoCAD is a tool that lets you import your feedback and make changes directly in your drawing, without using additional tools or creating new drawings. As a result, you can get feedback from real-world and digital print, and then easily incorporate those changes into your designs. The Markup Assist feature, which is now available for AutoCAD LT, is an easy way to send design feedback to others. All you have to do is open your drawing, select the users you want to receive the feedback from, then export the drawing. When you send the file, you will have the option to send all comments and/or only
